I graduated from Manual High School 40 years ago, and each passing year makes me appreciate the wonderful education I received at Manual. Over the years it has been my privilege to keep in personal contact with many of the teachers and staff, and this pleasure continues today.

Manual High School has always had a prominent place in the Indianapolis area and will continue to be the outstanding school it is with the continued help of our great Manual Alumni Association.

A loyal Redskin,

Herbert F. Schwomeyer

Manual

Manual High School, the second high school in Indianapolis, opened its doors February 18, 1895 and brought a whole new concept of education to the city. Prior to this time, the main emphasis of education was placed on reading, writing and arithmetic. It was thought that this was all one needed to succeed in the world.

The new school with the motto of "Education of the Mind, Hand and Heart," focused on the manual arts — woodworking, metal working and architecture. Because of this, it was called the Industrial Training High School.

Cy S. Ober, a Manual alumni remarked, "I was attracted to Manual because of the opportunity to train my hands as well as my mind and heart."

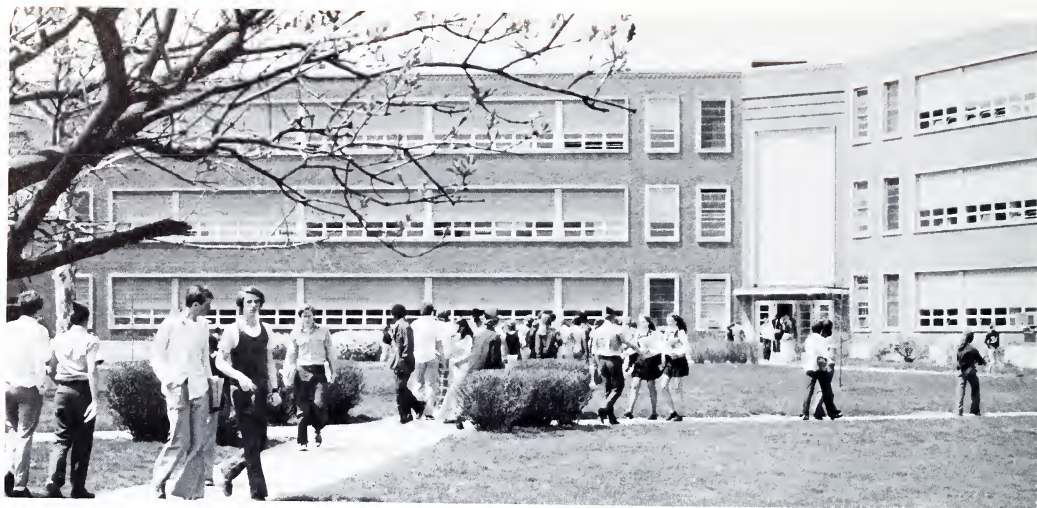

Charles E. Emmerich was chosen to be the first principal in 1894. At the dedication he said, "We have a building but we have no school yet." He pledged to do all he could to make this new type of school a success. The faculty and students with a newly adopted school slogan of "We Can, We Must, We Will," all joined in helping Mr. Emmerich with his task.

To honor the first principal for his dedication and many contributions to the growth of the high school, the school's name was changed to Emmerich Manual Training High School on April 4, 1916, shortly after his death. The word "training" was later dropped from the name.

In 1940 plans for a new building were begun after the old building was outgrown. Money for the project was authorized in 1943 and in August of 1951 there was a ground-breaking ceremony. The old building was renovated and now is Harry E. Wood High School.

Today Manual offers more than just vocational training. A wide variety of academic, business, home ec, art and music courses are also offered. The school motto of "Education of Mind, Hand and Heart" has been fulfilled.

Miss Margaret Goebel, math teacher and a Manual alumni commented, "Manual offers a wide variety of courses to insure that everyone has the same chance to educate his mind, hand and heart."

An Indianapolis high school student, in my opinion, has many roles to play in our community. Such a person is a citizen who should actively support civic developments and maintenance in which he or she believes. But the most important role of an Indianapolis high school student is to study, acquire skill and, thus, contribute to the unfinished agenda of safety and progress for all in our community.

Best,

ANDY JACOBS, JR.

To the students of Emmerich Manual High School:

With the voting age now at 18, the entire spectrum of American politics is now more accessible and therefore more receptive to the youth of the country. The high School student now has an even greater opportunity to become involved in the government, but more important, he now has a serious responsibility to accept and fulfill by registering and voting at all elections.

Manual High School is helping prepare its students to meet the challenges they will be facing in the near future. We are all familiar with the problems which plague the country today and with the guidance of schools such as Manual, every student in America has the opportunity to prepare himself to make the most valuable contribution possible to his community and to his country; that of good citizenship.

Sincerely,

DAVE EVANS

Throughout the history of Indiana, there has been much change and progress. Indiana's famous Hoosier personality, consisting of rustic simplicity, self-sufficient independence and reflective conservatism, helped in the growth and prosperity of Indiana.

Thomas R. Marshall, in once describing Hoosiers, said, "I come from Indiana, the home of more first-rate second-class men than any State in the Union."

R.W. Emerson also commented on the Indiana Hoosier. He said, "When an eastern man is cheated by a Hoosier he is said to be 'Wabashed.'"

Indiana entered as the nineteenth state of the Union on December 11, 1816. The state gradually grew until in 1821 Indianapolis was settled and became the state capitol. Indianapolis' name, meaning city of Indians, was the compromise accepted by those who wanted either Suwarrow, meaning a cactus, or Tecumseh, an Indian Chief of Indiana, to be the capitol city's name.

The first railroad arrived in 1847, accelerating the city's growth. The discovery of natural gas and the beginning of the automobile industry helped the city's expansion towards the end of the Nineteenth Century. Manufacturing and agriculture also played a major role in its growth.

Indianapolis has changed architecturally since the 1900's. From the Soldiers and Sailors Monument to the Market Square Arena, Indianapolis' skyline reflects the thriving Indy business community and the strong concerns of its citizens.

The city's education also developed, consisting of both parochial and public schools. Shortridge High School was the first one in Indianapolis followed by Emmerich Manual High School. They were the first of many elementary and secondary schools to follow.

Senator Birch Bayh said, "Over the past 200 years we have developed one of the most democratic public school systems in the history of the world, and in Indiana we went one important step beyond by incorporating the right to a free public education for every citizen in our State Constitution."

For the past 159 years, Indiana has advanced agriculturally, educationally and manufacturally. It has worked hard to become one of the higher rated states in the United States.

As a nation we are devoted to education. Each year Americans spend over 50 billion dollars to educate upwards of 45 million students in our elementary and secondary school system. Over the past 200 years we have developed one of the most democratic public school systems in the history of the world, and in Indiana we went one important step beyond by incorporating the right to a free public education for every citizen in our State Constitution. I believe it can be said without exaggeration that our educational system will stand as one of the great achievements of the American civilization.

H.G. Wells once said that history is a race between education and catastrophe and it is up to each and everyone of us to make certain that education continues to be the winner in this country.

Sincerely,

BIRCH BAYH

Many Americans have given their lives for the ideals of freedom. Although they were mortal beings, their actions and words have immortalized the idea and the reality of freedom. These Americans, through great personal sacrifices, have deserved the honor and appreciation which the Bicentennial reflects upon them. Some of these Americans are still alive through their words.

Benjamin Franklin, statesman, philosopher and inventor, proved his beliefs by signing the Declaration of Independence while saying, "We must indeed all hang together, or most assuredly, we shall all hang separately."

In his fiery words, Patrick Henry shows the extent of American determination by stating, "Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!"

Daniel Webster helped us on our road to separation from tyranny by developing the American form of English among other things. He used these new words to put it all together when he said, "God grants liberty to those who love it, and are always ready to guard and defend it."

Just before 1865, when slavery was abolished and the true meaning of freedom came closer to America's grasp, Abraham Lincoln said: "... and that government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth."

In despair after losing his freedom, Chief Joseph said, "I will fight no more forever."

One of the greatest Americans of the modern world summed up our traditional values of freedom in one statement. John F. Kennedy in his eloquent manner said: "Ask not what your country can do for you, ask what you can do for your country."

Martin Luther King was another American coherent with the ideals of freedom. Part of his speech to civil rights demonstrators proves his genius as he stated, "... I still have a dream that one day this nation will rise up, live out the true meaning of its creed: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal."

This is our 200th year celebration to give honor to those who did give to their country. Let's hope it reminds us of our responsibility to do what we can for our country.

High school students of today have an even greater opportunity for success. Manual has grown through the years, expanded its facilities and increased its course of studies to include home economics, printing, nursing, stage craft and music.

C.S. Ober

Classes have provided the key to Manual's success since the school's beginning in 1895. Manual has always offered more than just the basics of education.

When the school began, the manual training courses offered were considered new and revolutionary. Today, with the growing need for this type of training and the large number of schools offering it, it was no longer considered strange, but accepted as the norm.

Senior shop student Bill Hicks commented, "Shop's fun and I learn a lot, but I think everyone needs to learn basic things like math and English."

Manual training, business and academic courses kept the 1975 Manualites busy. Most students spent five or six hours a day in academic pursuits. The classes built character as well as knowledge as students were challenged and strove for perfection.

Senior Becky Farley commented, "It is the responsibility of every student as well as the school he attends to insure that a good education is received. A student has to want and work for a good education before he will get it."

Outstanding Art Department wins student approval

"The Art students have progressed greatly this year. It shows in the numbers who compete and advance in art competition, locally and nationally," said Mr. Donald Johnson, Art Department Head.

The art courses offered varied selections of art training. For the students who were planning to advance their studies in art, fine arts was offered. Some of the classes were Basic Art 1-2 and Advance Art 1-6. Art Appreciation was offered to the art majors.

"Art Appreciation was one of the best courses I took at Manual. It made evident the various types of art," commented senior Mary Lucas.

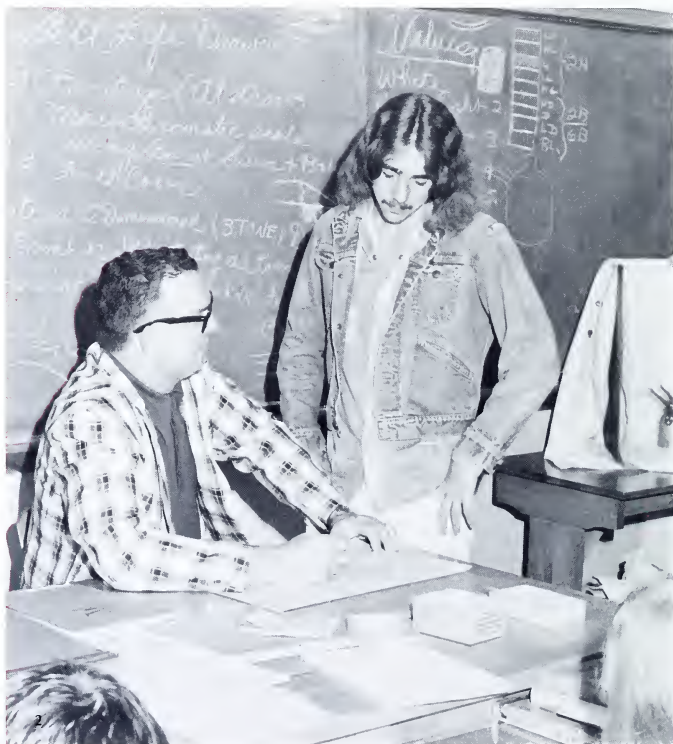

Craft Arts was offered to those students who enjoyed rug making, weaving, copper enameling and working with different types of textiles.

"I like to work in craft arts. Working with clay is the best," expressed freshman Tom Baumann.

"I like it! When we first came to high school there was a lot that we didn't know, but after leaving here there's a big difference," senior Mary Baase remarked.

The Art Department gave pupils a chance to show their true selves.

"Manual has some of the best art students in the state. I think this is evident by the competition outcome. The number that have gone on to higher artistic institutes is good for a school of this size. I think our students are more serious and sophisticated about the field of art than students in other schools in the city," commented Mr. Nicholas Logsdon, advanced art teacher.

1 — Mr. Wayne Spinks watches as his art class try their talents at water coloring.

2 — Constructive criticism is helpful to sophomore Nathan Monroe's art work. Mr. Robert Crawford aids students in further developing their artistic talents.

3 — Senior Kathy Burgess and sophomore Marlena Chastain enjoy working with clay in ceramics.

4 — Miss Terrie Clark helps students with their various problems.

5 — Mr. Nicholas Logsdon gives helpful advice to sophomore Tom Green on his work.

Redskins earn and learn from business courses

Business students were offered a wide variety of classes from Business Law to Shorthand and Merchandising.

Mrs. Charlotte Camfield, department head, said, "Traditionally Manual has always had a high enrollment in business courses."

Other than basic business education, the Business Department offered two federally reimbursed work programs, Cooperative Office Education and Distributive Education. In these programs, students attended classes in the morning and had on-the-job training at a local organization in the afternoon.

COE student Bobbie Lloyd commented, "I think COE is an excellent chance for students to combine what they learn in school with actual experience."

Distributive Education (DE) was a program for seniors who did not plan to attend college. The only courses necessary to become eligible were Sales and Merchandising.

When entering this program the student would earn two credits per semester, one for the class and one for the job. Most of the jobs had starting salaries of $2.10 per hour.

Miss Sue Workman, DE teacher, commented, "DE is a really terrific program. I have many students working at warehouses, and places such as Blocks, Ayres, Lane Bryant and ad agencies. The students also get jobs as credit office workers, cashiers, or an inventory operator."

1 — Accounting I students Valerie Crenshaw, Shirley Burt, and Bonnie Loyd work hard during class time.

2 — Mr. Roy Caulder hands back classwork to Robin Castle in Accounting I class.

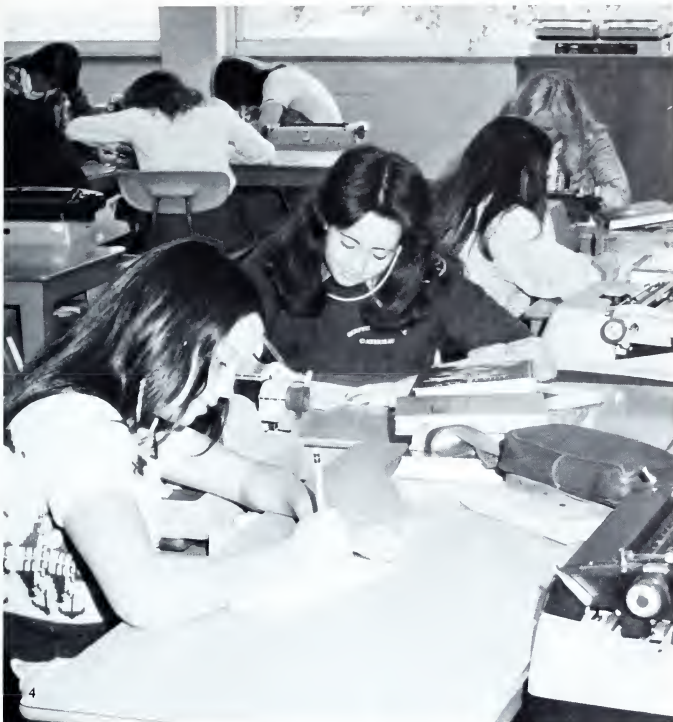

3 — Using class time to their advantage, seniors Dorothy Dana and Denise Boat study shorthand.

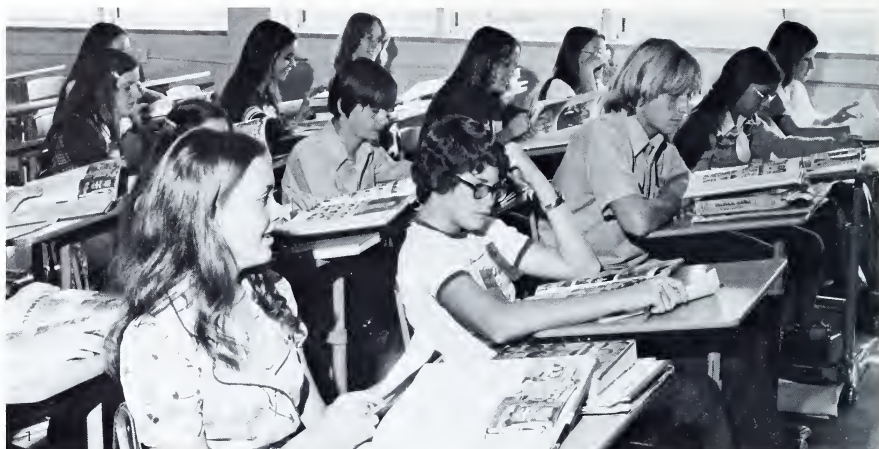

4 — The dictaphone gives seniors Patty Buckle and Angie McHugh office training in an advanced shorthand class.

5 — Pursuing knowledge, Carolyn Willis asks Mr. Hugh Hughes a question in Data Processing while Tom Davis looks around.

6 — Mrs. Phyllis Sullivan explains the workings of a business machine to seniors Shari Davis, Terri Curtis, and Linda Domangue.

1 — Mrs. Susan Donges' English 3g class took a short course in yearbook. The students wrote the copy for the club section.

2 — Freshmen in orientation class working on their vocational reports.

3 — Discussion is a major part of english. Mrs. Louise Plummer talks to her students about their themes.

4 — Miss Molly McGarry assists her english class with their assignments.

5 — Speeches are frequently done in english classes. Junior Mary Maxwell is giving her speech on beauty care.

English classes adjust to students in past 18 years

Because a student must first master English before understanding other subjects, Manual students were required to take six semesters of English. There was a wide assortment of classes offered to cater to any student's interest.

In the last 18 years, there have been changes in Manual's English curriculum. In 1958 Etymology was first made available to juniors and seniors. Jeanne Gabonay, senior said, "It was an interesting class, and I thoroughly enjoyed the study of words."

Histlish was the next class to be added. The class was a combination of English V and VI and U.S. History I and II. It has been offered since

Humanities, a senior course, has been available since 1966. Humanities combined a study of the literary, governmental, historical, artistic, and philosophical aspects of different periods of time. "Special films, lectures, and readings add more fun to the class," commented Mr. Fred Bennett, humanities teacher.

Dropper from Manual's curriculum throughout the years were Radio, Speech, and Dramatics. They were combined into Public Speaking Class. Mr. Carl Wright, speech teacher, said, "The student gets more out of Public Speaking because he is exposed to ideas from all three classes in effective communications instead of being expected to take three different yet related courses to understand media, communication and theatre."

Phrase electives, the most recent addition to Manual's curriculum, were added in 1973. In 1975-76 Phase was changed to allow seniors to participate as well as sophomores and juniors. There were 39 classes offered as substitutes for regular English classes the last six weeks of each semester. Junior Tina Lewis remarked, "Phase Electives add more fun to the English classes. The students get less bored."

Booster system creates more student input

Manual's 1975-76 BOOSTER staff worked diligently to put out interesting and informative newspapers throughout the year.

Being a reporter of school news was mostly advantageous. Senior Darla Powell commented, "Writing stories about school events makes me more aware of school problems and happenings."

Working in this newspaper situation gave experience for a journalism career. Sophomore Terry Cox stated, "Pub" has broadened my journalism knowledge and increased my contact with school."

The BOOSTER editorial system changed this year. Three editors-in-chief were assigned their own issues. These editors were juniors Mary Maxwell, Jeanie Van Blaricum and Reva Williams. Each was responsible for the majority of the frame-work for her issue.

Mary Maxwell said, "I feel I have gained much experience from opportunities made available through the newspaper staff."

Mary Maxwell, Jeanie Van Blaricum, and Reva Williams attended Indiana University for journalism training.

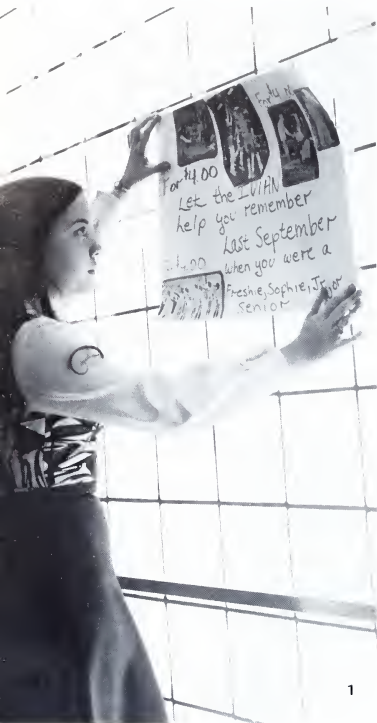

Cheryl Denny, Business Manager, sold ads and took care of financing the BOOSTER.

Junior Jenny Tutterow summed up the newspaper staff's feelings, "Publications is a lot of work but it is worth it when you see something you've written in print."

1 — The BOOSTER editors discuss a layout for one of the pages of the newspaper. Juniors Jeanie Van Blaricum, Mary Maxwell, and Reva Williams make up the editors.
 2 — Sophomore Cathy Newport and senior Julie Hafer help each other with their work.
 3 — Publication's office is always busy with students working on copy for the newspaper.
 4 — This is a typical picture of the staff working and talking in 'Pub'.
 5 — Mrs. Toni Hammer, newspaper advisor, assists students in writing the BOOSTER.

Ivian staffers pool their resources to create unique 1976 yearbook

The 1975-1976 IVIAN staff strove to more fully represent the students feelings and opinions.

"By using quotes from the students and faculty, a bright colored cover, and flashy headlines, we hoped to create a different, unique book," commented Co-editor Jane Maxwell.

A dedicated staff consisting of co-editors, Jeanne Gabonay and Jane Maxwell, Sports editor Rickie Maxwell, Art editor Mary Lucas, Senior editor Vickie Swank, Ad Manager Dell Hendon, Index editor Cathy Newport and Junior Shirley Burt, together with the hard work of Advisors Mrs. Toni Hammer and Mrs. Susan Donges put the Ivian to press.

Co-editor Jeanne Gabonay commented, "It was a lot of hard work, but it was really rewarding to know that you helped put together your last IVIAN."

Jane, Jeanne and Shirley Burt attended the Indiana summer High School Journalism Institute year-book workshop. They planned the Ivian and began work on it.

Shirley commented, "We managed to combine the work with enough fun to make it a very enjoyable experience."

The cover design and all other artwork was done by Mary Lucas.

The whole staff worked diligently together on what they hope proved to be a unique, interesting Ivian.

1 — Junior Shirley Burt hangs a poster for the Ivian campaign.

2 — Vicki Swank, Senior editor, Dell Hendon, Ad Manager, Mary Lucas, Art Editor, Rickie Maxwell, sports editor, and Jeanne Gabonay and Jane Maxwell, Co-editors, hold a conference to discuss new ideas for the '76 year-book.

4 — Co-editors Jeanne Gabonay and Jane Maxwell go over Ivian copy with Mrs. Susan Donges, advisor.

5 — Mrs. Toni Hammer nods approvingly while Art-Editor Mary Lucas displays her art work.

Language furthers understanding; aids Redskins in jobs and colleges

Since the formation of the United Nations, and the opening of foreign countries to visitors, there has been a need to learn other languages. Junior Reva Williams stated, "I took Spanish because I wanted to understand how other people live."

"Although many students drop a foreign language after taking it a year or so, this year's students have been among the best of all language levels over other years," commented Mr. Carsey Gentry, foreign language department head.

Many people took a foreign language simply to enjoy the pleasures of another language. Dawn Fisher, an excited Spanish V student said, "I took Spanish because I thought I'd like it."

Sophomore Phyllis Whittemore said, "There are so many advantages in being able to communicate with visitors, tourists, or just knowing the language."

While there are people who may use their knowledge of a language for pleasure purposes, others might seek a job that enables them to use their language skills. Senior Kristi Manning said, "Some colleges and jobs that I find desirable prefer that a person speak a second language."

The major jobs of foreign languages are bilingual secretaries, work with foreign relations, or work at the United Nations.

Students of foreign languages said that the personalities of the teachers, Mrs. Audrey Cronkhite, Latin teacher; Miss Ann Manning, Spanish teacher; and Mr. David Phillips, French teacher; encouraged further study in these languages.

Darla Powell, senior said, "The enthusiasm of the teacher many times made many students continue in foreign language study."

1 — Mrs. Audrey Cronkhite assists her latin class with their assignment.

2 — French students are drilled on their vocabulary by Mr. David Phillips.

3 — Studying Spanish can be fun as these spanish students learn of Spain's cultures.

4 — These french students are being given time in class to complete their assignment.

5 — Department Head, Mr. Carsey Gentry, helps students understand Spanish better with the assistance of a slide projector.

1 — Mrs. Ann Holmes instructs her Clothing 1 class on basting a hem.

2 — Clothing students often need assistance in cutting patterns and cloth. Mrs. Jean Bacus helps this worried student with her pattern.

3 — Junior Gloria Walker watches carefully as Mrs. Jean Bacus sews a problem stitch.

4 — Students watch as Mrs. Blanche Ruston prepares a dish in foods class.

5 — Correcting figures on a sewing project is also an important job Mrs. Jean Bacus must perform.

Learning to cope with life basic in Home Economics

Home Economics teachers taught students how to better cope with home-like situations and the rising cost of living. Twin classes were dropped, giving students added class-time to work on their clothing and cooking projects.

Notching and basting seemed to bring frustration to Clothing I students, but most agreed that straight sewing projects were fun. "I like to sew because it relaxes me," added Carla Scott, freshman.

Senior Clothing proved exciting this year as girls made their own weddings gowns. The girls also made the senior banner and senior armbands.

Sophomore Janet Dillman, a Foods I student, stated, "Learning how to cook is very interesting. I really enjoy it, I'm taking this class all three years."

Junior Melissa Fowler, also a Foods I student, added, "You learn a lot in foods class. It's fun."

Advanced foods students led the pace with preparing luncheons, teas, homemade candy for Pow Wow, canned foods, and decorating fancy cakes. "I'm making my own wedding cake," stated Cathy Clark, senior.

Junior Linda Martin added, "I like to cook and learn to entertain. It's fun."

Family Health, a required class for senior girls, seemed to be a popular course this year. "I think it's a good class. It teaches a lot of fundamentals girls will use when they have their own families and homes," stated Vicki Swank, senior.

Family Living students were required to do a semester project on an approved subject. However, the most important goal for the class was to change personal attitudes about others.

Other classes offered were Social Practice and Child Development. The girls taking the classes agreed that their Home Economics classes had given them excellent training for the future.

Maybury's philosophy emphasized in Manual's Vocational Class

"Creating 'on the job' atmosphere and safety conditions were the two important goals this year in industrial arts. Tool operation terms, and career type situations were emphasized in the classroom," explained Mr. Ed Maybury, department head.

Some students took shop classes to help gain immediate employment after high school, while others aimed toward college. Junior Walter Schriber commented, "I took electric shop because I'm going to technical college for electronics. I really like to study components in radios."

"I feel electric shop prepares me for a good profession after high school," added Phil French, sophomore.

Junior Jon Coslete added, "I'm taking mechanical drawing because I plan to be an architect."

Freshmen in industrial arts followed the Introduction to Industry Program, which gave students an overall view of six selected fields. One grading period was spent on each of these subjects: graphic arts, construction, drafting, electricity, car mechanics, and metals. This allowed students a chance to decide in which area they wanted to specialize.

Many students took pre-vocational education in the portable classroom. The stress in this class was on home maintenance.

Mechanical drawing was changed from a one to a two period class. Power mechanics (auto shop) seemed to be a popular course.

Junior Paul Baase said, "Auto shop is good, because when you get your own car you can be your own mechanic."

Each day industrial arts students hopefully learned new skills which better equipped them to meet the challenges of their future.

1 — An industrious student works with machinery in his wood shop class.

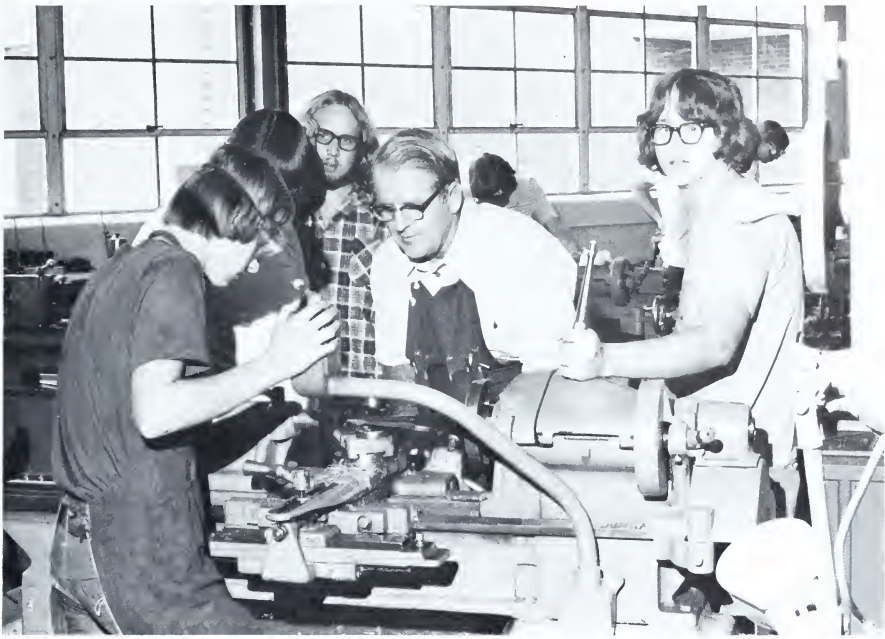

2 — Mr. John Easley discusses juniors Michael Jordan and Terry Hill's architectural drawing with them.

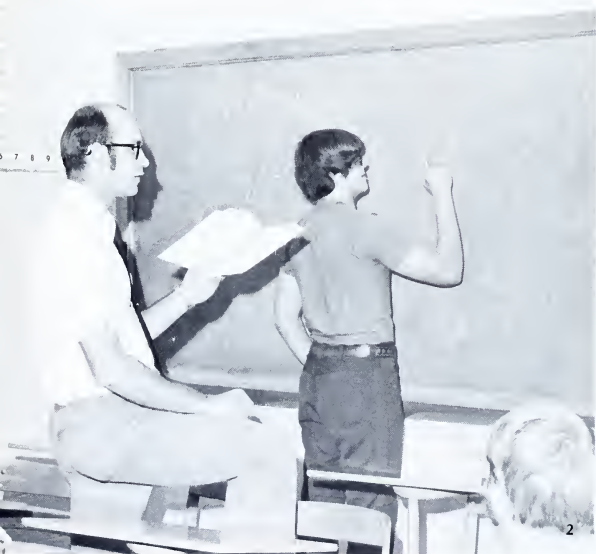

3 — In metal shop, Mr. Dale Reid explains the functions of the machinery.

4 — An annual duty of the printing classes is to print the senior armbands.

5 — Sophomore Leon Rudolph works on a project in metal shop.

Fifty percent of student body challenged by rigors of math

Advanced algebra, basic math, computer math, general math, geometry, introductory algebra, and trigonometry were all components of Manual's math curriculum.

The Math Department, headed by Mr. Ben Parke, tried to instill a math background that would help students in their future lives.

Of Manual's 2,313 enrollment, 1,302 were taking a math class in the '75 school year. This was over 50 percent of the student body.

When asked what trends were currently being emphasized in math, Mr. Parke commented, "In the math department throughout the city, we are endeavoring to offer more courses designed to help the less talented students." "A few years ago there were no basic math courses offered," added Mr. Parke.

Advanced classes such as calculus were dropped because of the small enrollments. The smallest math class offered this year was computer math which had seven students. In this course the students learned basic computer programming.

Trigonometry, another advanced class, was taken by thirty-four students.

Mr. Parke commented on the fact that there are more boys than girls in the advanced math courses: "In first year algebra and first year geometry, girls seem to be better than the boys, but when second year algebra and trigonometry come along, the boys surge ahead of them because the boys begin to think more logically."

Several students were asked why they took advanced math courses, and a variety of answers was received. Senior Millicent Gaither said, "I need advanced math for college entrance examinations."

Senior Vic Casada commented, "I need higher math because it is one the majors I hope to pursue in college."

Summing up the attitude of students and teachers alike, Mr. Parke said, "Education in any subject should not be confused with just knowing facts, but rather should be viewed as a training for life situations."

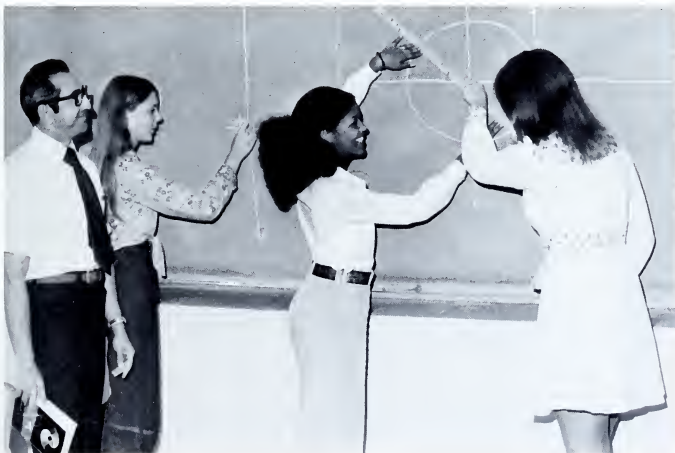

1 — Algebra 3 students listen as Mr. Ben Parke explains a problem.

2 — Junior Larry Wood finds he needs assistance from Mr. Harold Baumer in solving an algebraic problem.

3 — Students express their mixed emotions over the return of their math tests from Mr. Kenneth Freeman.

4 — Studying trigonometry under Mr. John Ciochina can prove interesting and helpful. Seniors Carol Lewis, Millicent Gaither, and Janet Alexander think it is more fun to do problems on the board.

5 — Mr. Ben Parke calls on an Algebra 3 student to solve the problem.

Choir, glee club, and pep band display various musical talents

The various facets of Manual's Music Department contributed to the community as well as the school in many ways this year.

The Faculty of the Music Department consisted of department head Mrs. Martha Cross, Mr. Bruce Smith, director of instrumental music, and Mr. Thomas Williams, vocal and piano instructor.

A poll taken in three of Manual's music classes showed that most students who became involved in music in their freshman and sophomore years stayed with it the rest of their high school years.

Senior Darlene McCormick commented, "I've been in music all four years and I thoroughly enjoy the set-up at Manual."

The Concert Choir, a select group of singers, was made even more select when the number of members was reduced. Mr. Thomas Williams, director, believed that more could be accomplished with a smaller group.

Under the direction of Mrs. Martha Cross, the Glee Club sang in programs throughout the year and performed in All-City Choir. The club caroled at feeder grade schools, gaining recruits for future years.

Mrs. Cross stated that the Glee Club "was one of the best sounding in years." She also stressed that they were striving for quality, not quantity.

Sophomore Pam Stroud said, "I like to sing, and because we sing everything from classical to modern music, I enjoy it even more."

A musical note was displayed at pep sessions and all home basketball games when the Pep band sparked enthusiasm by playing jazz and more contemporary songs.

A busy musical year ended with the annual May Festival.

1 — Manual's music students practice many hours to perfect their talents.

The Orchestra and Manualaires perform finest

The orchestra, under the baton of Mr. Bruce Smith, presented two musical concerts this year. A number of string players also participated in the Solo/Ensemble and the All-City Orchestra. The orchestra finished a busy year by performing at the May Festival, evening school commencement and vespers. Mr. Smith expressed pleasure at the performance and progress of the orchestra students.

Sophomore Kimery Shelton said, "The students enjoy playing their instruments because they really want to be there."

Manualaires, under the direction of Mr. Thomas Williams, performed in several programs throughout the year. The group consisted of some of Manual's best singers.

Enrollment in piano lab showed a marked increase for the 1975-76 school year. There were three beginning classes and one advanced class.

Junior Jenny Tutterow, a beginner in piano lab, stated, "I love it! It reflects well on Manual to be the only school in the state to have a piano lab. It helps one's musical education to progress at one's own speed."

3 — Practice is an important part of perfecting both sophomores Kimery Shelton and Keith Campbell's musical talents.

4 — Students in keyboard learn the fundamentals of the piano.

Band and twirlers perform their best for ISMA, parades, school

The endless drilling every day after school in spite of the heat, mud, and exhaustion paid off when the Manual Redskin Marching Band, accompanied by the Warriorettes, took another 'first' at the 1975 ISMA contest.

Mr. Bruce Smith, the band director, was very proud and said, "The band was the only one to receive a first division rating in both marching and playing contests in Marion County."

Senior Renita Major commented, "It's a lot of work, but when we get a first division at the ISMA contest it's all worthwhile."

The major activity of the band and twirlers was to perform at all home football games. The Warriorettes also did half-time shows at the home basketball games.

Scattered over the year were activities to keep both groups busy. The band was invited to play at the opening of a new Indiana highway, 1-70 and Veteran's Day Parade.

There was a separate ISMA contest for twirlers, aside from their fund-raising projects for new uniforms. For their final performance of the year, the band joined the other members of the music department for a May festival in the gym.

The twirlers had a new sponsor this year, Mrs. Ann Holmes, home economics teacher. Mrs. Holmes, who had worked with twirlers at Scecina High School for three years, hoped to "eliminate intrasquad conflicts and serve as a leader for practice."

"This is an organization well worth participating in as it strengthens the girls' characters and teaches them self-discipline," commented Mrs. Holmes.

1 — Majorette Marty Herbig leads the band on to the field for its performance.

2 — Manual's band and twirlers cheer on the football team.

Phys Ed helps man make his presence healthier

"Physical education is a well-rounded program. It fits everyone's needs, and there is a place in it for everyone," stated Mr. Pack Craig, physical education teacher.

Teachers seemed to agree that getting along with others was the motto for physical education.

All freshmen were required to take two semesters of physical education. When asked what was the most interesting activity in gym, freshman Rodney Trusley answered, "Wrestling is the most interesting thing we do in gym."

Herman Stone, freshman, added, "Wrestling helps you physically."

Competition in other areas such as gymnastics, horseshoes, table tennis, basketball, volleyball, softball, archery, badminton, tumbling, kickball, tennis, square and folk dancing, and soccer added excitement to the year.

Advanced classes were available to anyone who wished to take more than the one year of required gym. In advanced classes students received more individual attention. Students expressed a variety of reasons explaining why they were in advanced physical education.

Senior Carl Bryant stated, "I like to be physically fit."

Jeff Earnest, junior, stated, "I enjoy physical education because sports are my favorite activity."

Fred Shipley, sophomore, said, "I enjoy baseball and want to continue in it after graduation."

Health was a class offered to senior males in the physical education department.

Teacher Mr. Elwood McBride said that health is one of the more relevant courses in the curriculum. He added that students seem to find the units on drugs, personality improvement, and marriage preparation the most interesting. Mr. Alfred Pike, gym teacher, particularly enjoyed teaching the mental and social aspects of health.

Mr. Alfred Pike stated that his motto was to teach responsibility which he felt was the most important aspect of education.

Mr. Elwood McBride stated his teaching motto as follows, "Man is placed upon this earth. He should let his presence make it a better one."

1 — Senior Carol Sanders gives 'freshie' Linda Seabee some hints on how to correctly place an arrow in the girl's gym class.

2 — Freshman boys learn the fundamentals of football tackling in boys gym class.

3 — Mr. Al Pike discusses seniors Sherwin Smith and Max Shockley's projects for health class.

4 — The girls in a freshman gym class try their skill at kickball.

5 — Wrestling is a favorite sport of many of Mr. Al Pike's advanced gym students.

ROTC builds leadership, pride through discipline and knowledge

A fast growing subject in popularity was R.O.T.C. Enrollment in this program increased as interest in it grew. The program was designed to provide students with the leadership and responsibility not only to command the armed forces, but to be responsible citizens as well.

"The training is really tough, but it's been very valuable to me since I plan to enter the service," commented Senior Colonel Lieutenant Chris Powers.

ROTC was begun at Manual early in the twentieth century. During the two World Wars students who had had ROTC training proved to be invaluable in the fighting. Later an enlarging and strengthening period was begun during which student classes increased in sizes.

Until 1972 the program was for males only. Colonel Powers explained, "The girls liked it and so they were allowed in on a trial basis. In 1973 they proved they were as good as the male cadets so they were let in permanently."

Tammy Powers, a Colonel Sergeant remarked, "I think girls have as big a piece in ROTC as the guys do. Who knows? There may be a time in the future where we will even be called into active service to fight in a war?"

Sophomore, Mark Burgess, a Colonel Sergeant, commented, "The girls can do the same things we can. The training is useful not only for the guys."

The ROTC took part in many activities. They marched in the Veterans Day Parade and the AFI. They also performed services at all home football and basketball games, banquets, drama productions, and dances.

2 — Physics I students work diligently at their lab.

3 — "George" is a visitor of interest to the Boys Health class.

4 — Mr. Leland Walters points out the characteristics of different rocks to junior Bobbi Summers, senior Sandra Wamsley and Junior Sara Short.

5 — Mr. Eric Brodus works with his biology students on an assignment.

Students expand their awareness by examining variety of sciences

The Manual Science Department offered a variety of interesting courses ranging from a general introduction to science to advanced, in depth studies.

Biology, a required course for sophomores, was usually the first science course taken by Manual students. Many students became interested in science through biology and continued with chemistry and physics.

Sophomore Marianne Walter commented, "Biology gives a view of a different world through a microscope."

Approximately seven hundred students were enrolled in laboratory sciences at Manual.

Chemistry students found that they used their algebra and biology knowledge in class.

Junior Larry Wood said, "Besides being a college prep course chemistry taught a student to study and work on his own."

Only twenty-seven students enrolled in Physics I, probably due to the reputed difficulty of the course.

Senior Dell Hendon agreed that physics was difficult, but said, "It let students see the world in a different way; it was a very logical class."

Greg Gaskin, senior, believes, "Physics was the most interesting class offered in Manual's Science Department."

The students currently involved in science classes used some of their class experience to describe the classes.

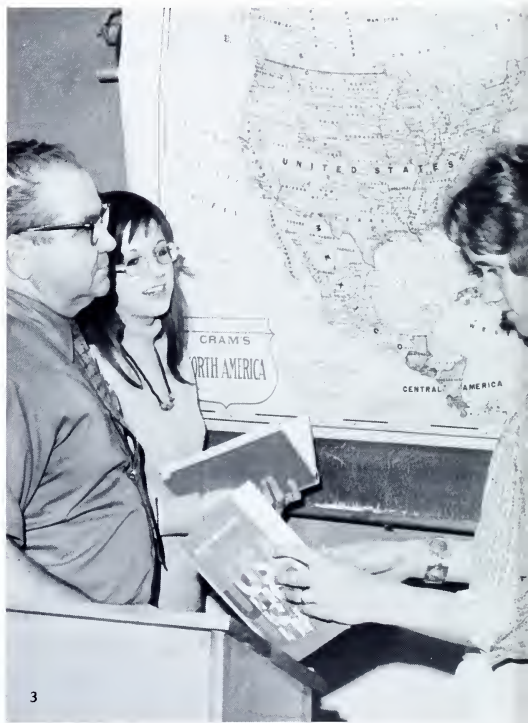

"As Mr. Lewis would say, physics is phun, but chemistry is choool," commented junior Mary Maxwell.

Rick Curtis said, "When I make a mistake in physics, I feel I am being propelled through space by the inertia of my stupidity."

Combining fun with serious study Manual's Science Department completed another hopefully successful year.

- 1 — Miss Margaret Consodine illustrates a point in the government book to seniors Gloria Fields, Greg Gaskin, and Mary Ruth.
- 2 — Authentic letters draw the attention of juniors Ron Whitmore and Dawn Fisher. They find their histlish classmates did a fine job in duplicating letters of the 1700's.
- 3 — Mr. Louis Parnell discusses parts of the United States with juniors Desiree Roberts and Dan Chowning.
- 4 — Psychology students participate in class discussions on personality traits with Mr. Paul Johnson.
- 5 — Students in world civilization take notes as Mr. John Krueger tells them about the world's history.

Man and his world prompt Manual's social study

Since 1976 marks the Bicentennial, Mrs. Marilyn Dever's Histlish class decided to focus upon it. They had a guest speaker, special units and special assignments. Histlish combined U.S. History and English V and VI in a double-period section.

A poll was taken to determine why students requested Histlish. The two reasons most frequently cited were because Histlish helped prepare one for college and the class provided a challenge.

Mrs. Dever enjoyed teaching Histlish and said, "I love it. I really get to know the kids — a whole school year, double periods. We become a family and do things together, not just school things."

While Histlish celebrated the Bicentennial, Mr. Paul Johnson's psychology class considered people and their relationships with others.

Mr. Johnson said, "Students are trying to cope with today's problems and want to understand more about people and why they do the things they do. Perhaps that explains the increase in enrollment in psychology class."

Student projects were completing questionnaires, compiling statistics, studying what children can be expected to do at certain ages and running mazes with mice.

Senior Laurie Gray said she took Psychology because, "The study of people fascinated me and I thought it would be an interesting course."

World Civilization, a course offered to freshmen and sophomores, suffered a decrease in the number of students.

Mr. John Krueger commented, "Since World Civilization is no longer required, classes have become smaller."

Government students learned about the importance of voting and the political system. Senior Jeanne Gabonay said, "Government helped me realize the duties and responsibilities a person has toward his government."

Economics, a class required for all seniors, considered taxation, banking, and the organization of business.

Other classes in the Social Studies Department were Urban Problems, International Relations, and Exploratory Teaching. Urban Problems dealt with the problems of contemporary cities. International Relations considered the standards of living and problems of development in other countries.

Library and AV provide varied materials, aid

Serving both the students and faculty of Manual with educational materials was the library and AV department's goal. Since 1948, when Manual's library became independent, it has introduced new methods of learning.

Students kept informed of recent issues by using the sound filmstrips. These filmstrips included topics dealing with problems of parenthood to the answer of dealing with anger.

If students were looking for pleasure, the library contained tape cassettes of well-known books, such as Huckleberry Finn, Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, and Great Expectations.

Julie Hafer, senior, commented, "I really enjoy listening to tape cassettes of my favorite books."

Equipment in the library could be used by more than one person. One to three people could watch a sound filmstrip and items such as the Viewlux cassette for classroom use.

Teachers used the library for references, the primary typewriter, and 3m copier. Both students and teachers found the library to be pleasurable as well as educational.

Miss Helen Negley, head librarian, felt Manual had one of the best equipped libraries. She was very proud of the library.

Audio visual director, Mr. Harold Pagel, has worked at Manual for 18 years. Each year, Mr. Pagel assigned and trained students to operate projectors. Six students were assigned for each period and they received honor points.

Students benefitted from the knowledge they received from filmstrips and slides.

1-Sophomores Spyro Pappas and Bob Perdue listen to filmstrips in Manual's library.

2-There is a wide variety of jobs in the library for senior Joe McGuffey and senior Kay Roe to perform.

3-Sponsor of AV, Mr. Harold Pagel and senior Elinore Schelske watch as junior Mark Coleman, sophomore Cathy Gordon, and freshman Allan Tames get projectors ready to show films.

4-Sophomore Tom Callahan works industriously in the quietness of the library.

5-Mr. Harold Pagel works hard in making films available to Manual's student body.

1-Vice-Principal Mr. E. Franklin Fisher glances up from his work long enough for a picture.
 2-Mr. Larry Morwick strikes a pose for the photographer.
 3-Mrs. Susan Dones reacts enthusiastically to a student's comment in the Publications office.

 5-Mr. Leroy Heminger, Mr. Roy Calder, Mr. Harold Clark, Mr. Paul Johnson and Mr. Gerald Root relax in the mens faculty lounge during a free period.

Faculty team creates, works for Redskins

Capitalizing on a student-teacher ratio of 20-1, Manual's faculty created an atmosphere of friendliness and learning. Mr. Howard Thrall, principal, often cited the cooperation and achievements of the staff.

Manual's faculty is noted for working as a team to create an appropriate atmosphere for true education to take place. The fact that teachers are involved in their roles within the Manual community is reflected in the small percentage of turnover within the faculty.

Many teachers also took an active part in clubs, sports and other activities. Teachers found that although participating in extra curricular activities was often demanding, involving long hours above and beyond the call of duty, it was also rewarding.

"I see a different side of the students than the ones they show in class," remarked Mr. Carsey Gentry, Spanish Club sponsor.

The extra activities of the teachers also provided the students with a different view of their teachers. Some students discovered that teachers are human and capable of enjoying themselves. Senior Pat Maxwell said, "Some of my teachers are really different out of the classroom. I can talk to them like they are my friends."

clubs

Clubs and organizations have helped to create more school spirit and community involvement at Manual since the early 1900's. Manual offered clubs as an extension from classes or just for a good time.

Sophomore Jim Richardson commented, "I think clubs are important because they help promote scholastic achievement in Manual high school."

There was both an increase and decrease in the membership of clubs through the years. This year, such clubs as Foreign languages, Pep, Bowling and DECA flourished, while Art and Science clubs dwindled to a few members. Two new clubs added were OEA and Chess, while Tri-Hi-Y, Radio and English clubs failed to reorganize.

Students joined clubs to get more involved in school and to meet new friends.

"I think everyone should be involved in clubs because it is a good way to get to know others," said senior Sandy Brown.

Senior Norma Schweikhart stated, "Students should get involved in clubs because they will enjoy school more than if they are not involved. It gives you a chance to be with people your own age and helps you to deal with others."

"I think it gets kids more involved with each other and gives them more spirit in school," commented senior Kent Whitley.

Popular language clubs add foreign flair to projects

In 1971, the French Club was started to stimulate interest in French culture, breaking up the monotony of an everyday class routine. The enrollment increased to forty members in 1976 making this the biggest membership in the five year existence of the club.

Members of the French Club and Mr. David Phillips, sponsor, enjoyed a year of fun and educational activities. The main excursion was a banquet of French cuisine prepared at La Tour Restaurant. Other activities enjoyed throughout the year included a lecturer who spoke on wine, a trip to the Indianapolis Art Museum to analyze French painting, and a lecture by a world traveler.

Mr. Phillips commented, "The reason French Club is so popular is because we travel. We have been to Chicago and New York in the past."

Latin Club consisted of sixteen members, an increase by five over last year. Members enjoyed a Saturnalia (Christmas) party, a spring swimming party held at the home of Mrs. Audrey Cronkite, the club sponsor, and a study of mythology. They also enjoyed guest speaker Bernard Barris, director of the Indiana Catapult Contest.

mented, "I joined Latin Club because it was a fun way to understand Latin."

Mr. Carson Gentry, sponsor of the Spanish Club, stated, "Spanish Club is one of the most popular clubs at school because of the wide variety of activities it is involved with." These activities included a Christmas fiesta, a homecoming float, an end-of-year taco party, and guest speakers.

"Spanish Club is where people can get together, get something done, and have fun at the same time," remarked junior Dennis Jones.

Honorary organizations excel and lead in work

Thespian Troupe 1492, Manual's section of the International Thespian Society, encouraged the dramatic efforts of Manual students.

Junior Jeanne Van Blaricum remarked, "I joined Thespians to get more experience and knowledge in drama."

Under the direction of Mr. Fred Bennett, the club sponsor, the troupe started the year off with an Agatha Christie mystery production entitled "Mousetrap." The play was set up differently. The performers acted on an inclined stage. This gave the audience an opportunity to view the play from stage level.

Junior Tom Masengale remarked, "It was really fun working so close to the audience. We had to be careful because we couldn't hide our mistakes from them."

"Berkly Square," a full-length romantic drama, was performed in May.

Other responsibilities ranged from setting up the Thanksgiving and Christmas programs to providing a service to the community.

Quill and Scroll, an international honorary society for high school journalists, was kept busy this year initiating new members, sponsoring the book fair, and selling Ivians.

Members of the club were chosen by Mrs. Toni Hammer, Publication adviser and the club sponsor. Members had to have worked in the Publications office for one year.

Junior Reva Williams, co-editor of the Booster, commented, "It is really an honor to be in Quill and Scroll. After working hard on the Booster, it's nice to be rewarded by being admitted into the organization."

National Honor Society increased its membership when new members were chosen in May. Juniors and seniors were chosen on qualities of leadership, scholarship, character and service.

Mr. Don Johnson was the organization's sponsor.

Senior Les White commented, "It's a real honor to be chosen from all the other students."

"If you're in the National Honor Society, you're recognized as a scholar not only in your school, but all over the country," remarked senior Mary Ruth.

Masoma and Roines always lead the Redskins to action and gaiety

Masoma, senior honorary organization for girls, finished their sixty-second year assisting Manual High School. Under the leadership of Mrs. Kathy Nichols, the girls planned several of their own projects and aided other organizations in carrying out theirs.

Mrs. Nichols commented, "The girls run the club by themselves. All I have to do is suggest an activity and the girls take charge."

Masoma activities included helping freshmen home room teachers on the first day of school and serving as hostesses at the Annual Alumni Banquet, English Honors day and the Senior party. They also prepared mums for homecoming, clothed a child at Christmas with funds from the treasury and sponsored a booth at the Pow Wow.

Roines, Manual's senior boys honorary club, was formed in 1914 to help solve the problems between Manual and Shortridge, two strong rivals. Two students, Ed Gardner and Ted Krull started the Roines club. They wrote the motto to which they still use, "service above self."

Senior Rick Curtis, secretary, commented, "I believe in the motto, because Roines is a service organization, and I feel that by serving others I indirectly serve myself."

The Roines and sponsor Mr. Dennis Jackson sponsored four Roines Romps during the year. The senior pledges did a burlesque show, sponsored a dance contest for the students, and had discodkeys draw crowds to the dances.

Both clubs made available the tutoring service again this year to whoever needed or wanted it.

Roines member Tom Wood commented, "The tutoring service gives the tutor a chance to share his abilities with someone else."

FCA, Lettermen, and SAB instill pride, spirit

Led by sponsors Mr. Larry Morwick and Mr. Raymond Schultz, FAC (Fellowship of Christian Athletes) began its second year with the membership more than doubled.

Freshman Herbie Clark explained the reason for the club's popularity, "Since I've been in it, I've grown to learn how other athletes feel about things and how to have fun at the same time."

A nationally recognized organization, FCA originated so professional athletes could set an example for younger people.

The main goals of FCA were to help charitable groups and to raise money to send members to camp. Although no requirements were set to join the club, athletes were especially welcomed.

According to sophomore Marty Evans, "FCA gives the players and coaches the opportunity to get to know each other better."

Pledging to uphold certain guidelines, the 1975 lettermen helped to create school spirit.

Mr. Ray Schultz, sponsor since 1965, explained the idea of the club, "The purpose of the Lettermen's Club is not only to take part in school activities, but to insure that each letterman maintains the pride of earning a Manual letter."

To obtain a letter, the athletes earned points by participating in varsity competition. The lettermen wore their sweaters every Friday and at school events. Each was awarded a pass to all of the varsity home games.

Special activities included their annual picnic, a Pow Wow booth, and various half-time activities at sport events.

SAB (Student Affairs Board) had many duties to carry out through the year. The first was to acquaint freshmen with the various aspects of the school by visiting orientation classes.

Every other week SAB met to discuss the students and the school's problems, and ways to solve them. Besides holding meetings, SAB also had rap sessions between the students and members of SAB over school problems.

"The purpose of the SAB is to make decisions about the students and the school's problems," explained a sophomore member, Cathy Lamperski.

The SAB contributed to many of the schools activities. For Homecoming they made a float, decorated the football field, and cleaned up afterwards. Other activities included ushering and passing out programs for Open House, carolling at Christmas time, and collecting canned goods for needy families.

Student members and faculty sponsors, Mrs. Marilyn Dever, Mr. Harold Baumer, and Mr. Wayne Spinks, worked hard to serve the school.

Search for knowledge and skills prompts Manual students to join

Office Education Association, OEA, was started in 1973 by Miss Barbara Boeldt of the business department. The club numbers thirty six members, all of whom also belong to the COE class.

The OEA strived to provide as many club activities as possible. These included field trips to places of business such as the Indiana National Bank and Stationers.

Senior Bobbi Lloyd said, "I joined because I wanted to get more involved with the class."

"OEA and COE provide opportunities for all students interested in a business," commented Miss Boeldt.

Distributive Education Clubs of America, DECA, is a nationally funded and co-curricular club. Merchandising, sales and a job are the only requirements for membership.

"I joined DECA because I thought it would be interesting, give me good job experience, and help me get a job," remarked senior Virginia England.

DECA, sponsored by Miss Sue Workman, was active in many projects. These included an Employer Banquet, fund raising projects, a Christmas and roller skating party, and a trip to King's Island. They also bought educational material for school, gave food to teen challenge centers, and participated in the annual Pow-Wow.

Mrs. Toni Hammer, sponsor of the 1975-76 Exercise in Knowledge Team, commented, "I thoroughly enjoyed working with the team because they were all interested in learning."

The members were selected in the spring of '75 and were given assignments to study over the summer. They met every Thursday before the first period to review questions and practice using the buzzers. In all of this, the team consulted the various department heads for questions and information pertaining to the subject areas.

The team unfortunately lost their first meet against Park Tudor on October 16.

"I really liked being on the team, even though I was an alternate, I still learned a lot of things I'd never known before," remarked junior Larry Wood.

Manual clubs conjure up fun, service, spirit

Manual's Key Club engaged in a year of service to Manual and the community.

Led by sponsor, Mr. Robert Hignite, Key Club was involved in such activities as the Teen Toy Shops, the distribution of toys to children at Central State Hospital, Project Christmas, the program that gave turkeys to the needy and skating parties held at USA skating rink. Various sales were also promoted to boost club funds.

Summing up the whole idea of Key Club, sophomore Damon Ground commented, "Key Club is a great way to help upgrade your school and community and have fun at the same time."

The MUC, Manual Underclassmen Club, participated in several projects and activities including a homecoming float, a Pow Wow

Booth, a party at McCormick's Creek, weekly meetings and initiations. MUC Club also cleaned the teacher's parking lot and sponsored a chess tournament.

Sophomore David Miller remarked, "MUC served as a step ladder to Roines. It's a worthwhile club and is for any underclassmen who would enjoy adding a great deal of spirit to our school."

Sponsor, Mr. Rex Lewis, remarked, "MUC club is a worthwhile club and I believe there is a place for it here at Manual."

The Bowling Club struck another season of enjoyment and fun. Club members met at Sport Bowl every Wednesday after ninth period.

"I enjoy giving students a chance to participate in a competitive sport as much fun as bowling," commented Bowling Club sponsor,

Mr. Paul Kuhlthau.

"I joined the club because it's an enjoyable sport and lets one associate and meet new people," said sophomore Mary Lamperski.

Competition, exercise and a chance to associate with other people were Bowling Club's main offers.

Pep Club consisted of girls working hard to support Manual's basketball and wrestling teams. Meetings were held every Tuesday after school to practice and perfect cheers for the games. The members attended all home games.

Miss Margaret Goebel, Pep Club sponsor, said, "I enjoy Pep Club immensely. Our goals for this year are making as many posters as possible to support all the teams and to work harder on our cheers and chants."

Art and Science serve students' special interests

Science Club conducted a project instead of the usual activities of trips and demonstrations.

"It was beneficiary to the students," said Mrs. Mary Thomas, club sponsor.

The project was based on whether color additives in food affected behavior. Mice served as the controls, with one eating food with color additives and the other without. Seniors Millicent Gaither and Tonita Richardson tested the mice for any variation which may have occurred.

"The club was a lot of fun," stated senior Millicent Gaither.

Art Club, sponsored by Mr. Wayne Spinks, met every Tuesday night after school. Members were allowed to work in any field of art they wished. Anyone interested in art was welcomed to join.

Sophomore Marianne Walter commented, "I think Art Club would have been more fun if there had been more members."

Both clubs suffered from lack of membership.

1 — Art Club, Front Row: Mr. Wayne Spinks, Patty Robertson, Marianne Walter. Second Row: Damon Ground, Ron Short.

2 — Science Club members, Millicent Gaither and Tonita Richardson, worked on their experiment with mice.

Manual's Dad's Club and PTA provide support for students

Special equipment, new uniforms and honorary functions for the Athletic Department were due to the activities of Manual's Dad's Club. "Dad's Club is a small organization at Manual, but the Athletic Department could not function without it," commented Mr. Bill Larmore.

Dad's Club, a tradition at Manual since 1953, sponsored an Inter-State Wrestling Tournament at Manual in June, a soap game and the All-Sports Banquet for all Manual athletes.

Mr. Calvin Crooks said, "I try to get involved in any activity my children are in. Dad's Club is an important part of Manual."

Manual's Parent Teacher Association consisted of parents that contributed time, effort and money for bettering its students.

Mrs. Charles Long, president of Manual's PTA, said there were three main reasons for having a PTA. They were to help raise the standard of the home, to secure adequate laws for the care of students and to try to bring a closer relationship between the school and the training of the child.

The PTA raised money for institute programs and scholarships by having its annual Pow Wow and concession stands at the football and basketball games.

Manual's Smoke Signals were issued four times this year by a group of women from the PTA. This paper informed parents of the school's happenings.

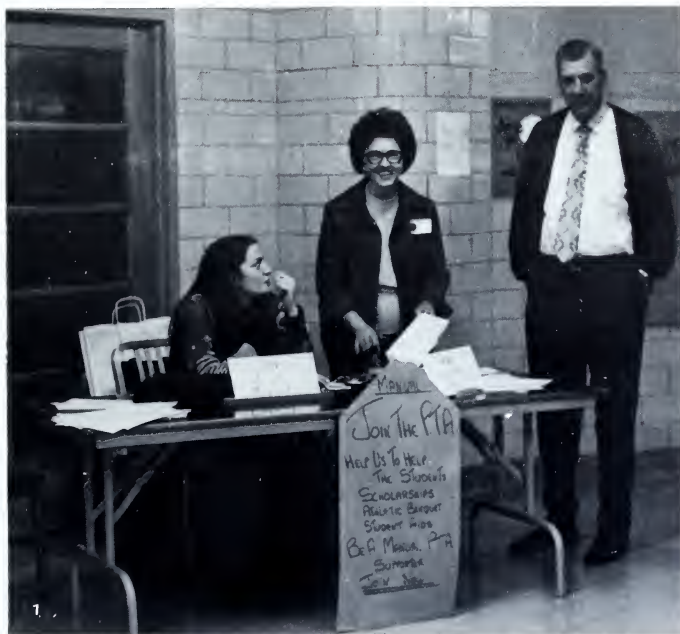

Mrs. Henry Tempke said, "I belong to the PTA because I want to help children get the most of school, and it helps parents and teachers to communicate better."

1 — Mr. and Mrs. Brown and their daughter, senior Sandy Brown, try to recruit new PTA members at Manual's Open House.

2 — Shooting baskets is only one of the many activities available at booths at Manual's annual Pow Wow.

3 — Seniors Lori Smith and Emily Abel get drenched during their half hour initiation at Masoma's "Squirt the Flirt" booth.

My four years at Emmerich Manual High School provided me with a sound academic background for my college years, athletic competition which helped propel me to other levels of competition, and an association with my fellow students which made the years at Manual extremely enjoyable and worthwhile. I thank my high school for all that it provided me.

The end of the schoolday was the beginning of fun for many Manualites. After school hours at Manual found many students rehearsing for the musical, Redskin Revue or a band show.

Senior Carrie Kennedy remarked, "I think that there is enough student life at Manual for everyone to have something to do."

"You have to get involved with extra activities before you can really feel like you're a part of the school," remarked senior Jenny Masengale.

Raines Romps, proms and the Pow Wow were other activities students were involved in.

Sophomore Charles Long remarked, "When you participate in clubs, dances and other activities it is kind of hard not to get involved with Manual."

Senior Sheila Beal said, "I think it is good to be in a lot of activities. You meet so many new friends and have such a good time."

Two homecomings bring defeat, yet pride, spirit not dampened

"Even though the weather altered our plans for homecoming, the Manual pride and spirit was not dampened, and the 'second' homecoming was just as exciting as those in past years," stated junior Marty Herbig.

Manual had two homecomings this year. The scheduled homecoming against Perry Meridian on October 17 was rained out. It was the first homecoming Miss Joyce Simmons, activities director, had ever known to be cancelled. The football game was played as usual, but the homecoming activities were cancelled until the Southport game on October 22.

Miss Simmons commented, "When I showed up at the football field and saw that the floats were there, but wind damaged, I returned to school to talk to Mr. Bruce Smith, the band director. He said that the band would not dress, and if it kept raining, they would not play. I then decided to postpone the ceremonies."

Many students were disappointed when the festivities were postponed. Queen candidate, senior Patti Burnette commented, "We were all dressed up and ready for the ceremonies. We were very disappointed. I wanted to go on and have the homecoming, but very few people were there."

Ten candidates vied for homecoming queen and king. Queen candidates were Sheila Beal, Sandy Brown, Patti Burnette, Cindy Dillon, and Peggy Dotson. The king candidates were Tom Brooks, Greg DeBoor, Chris Ferry, Kurt Kriese, and Elton Manual. Because the past queen and king were unable to return Wednesday night Greg Bunell, president of S.A.B., presented the roses and crowned Cindy Dillon and Elton Manual as queen and king.

Junior Kathy Walter summed up the feeling of many students when she said, "I was a little disappointed when homecoming was cancelled, but it was for the best. The weather Wednesday night was just perfect, and homecoming turned out great. It was a beautiful evening."

1 — Papooses, freshmen Mary Spears and Wayne Chambers, take the sparkling crowns to Greg Bunnell who will crown the queen and king.

2 — Freshman Bobby Bohannon carries the carpet to be rolled out during halftime activities.

3 — A truck load of cheering Manualites participate in halftime festivities.

4 — Senior Kay Whetsel rides horseback during the halftime show.

5 — Seniors Cindy Dillon and Elton Manual smile proudly at the honor of being crowned homecoming queen and king.

6 — Excitement and surprise are shown by senior Cindy Dillon after she is announced homecoming queen.

1 — Debra Barton assistant turnabout for Mr. James Walker, discuss a science problem with Mr. Walker's turnabout, Karel Harmon.
 2 — Some interesting machine shop techniques were discussed by John Entwistle, senior turnabout for Mr. Dale Reid and senior Randy Bratcher.
 3 — Senior Emily Able turnabout for Mr. Gerald Root displays her teaching abilities in an orientation class.
 4 — Mr. Curtis Rainbolt, Post Adjutant of the Ernie Pyle Post of the American Legion presents a flag to Mr. Howard Thrall, Principal, at the ceremonies which accompanied the PTA Open House on November 12.
 5 — Science teacher, Mr. Arthur Roney, chats with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stroud and their daughter Pam on parent-teacher night while another parent, Mrs. Tempke waits for her turn.

The 1975 AEW activities reflect Bicentennial

The 1975 American Education Week activities were special varied and purposeful in keeping with the Bicentennial spirit.

The kickoff event was the PTA Open House on November 12 which offered parents the opportunity to meet the faculty, visit classrooms, and see especial demonstrations and displays.

At this time the Ernie Pyle Post of the American Legion presented seventy-eight flags to Manual to be displayed in the classrooms. Military and community leaders were present to participate in the ceremonies.

Other AEW activities filled the calendar from November 16-22. People from the community visited Manual throughout the week as guests of the faculty, getting a first-hand look at today's students and classes.

On Turnabout Day, November 20, selected seniors were allowed to take the place of members of the Manual staff.

Senior Julie Hafer who was Mrs. Vi Hauser, the attendance clerk in the main office, said, "It was interesting, but I sympathize with those teachers. It's a lot of work."

Rick Curtis, senior, acted as head of the science department in lieu of Mr. Brownell Payne. Rick said, "I was really surprised at all the responsibilities a department head has."

Mr. Richard Blough, chairman of the AEW committee, expressed his pleasure at the cooperation of the staff and students, "I liked the professional attitude the students took toward being Turnabout teachers. They were willing not only to learn from the experience, but also to give of themselves to help."

1 — Dancing warriors, Parris Brown, Jerry Farmer, Kathy Wolfe and Kim Anderson perform their routine.

2 — Sophomores Bob Lemon, Paul Ott, junior Kimery Shelton, and senior Chris Powers practice after school.

3 — Junior Carol Smith as Annie sings, "Doing What Comes Naturally."

4 — Senior Carl Baumann as Frank explains to Annie, junior Carol Smith, what kind of girl he is looking for in "The Girl That I Marry."

5 — Junior Gary Holmes played Papa Bull, the great Indian chief.

Musical proves to be a sharp shooting event

Manual's stage came to life with this year's Musical, Annie Get Your Gun." The Irving Berlin classic provided an entertaining evening for both the cast and audience.

Sophomore Becky Crooks commented, "Everyone really had fun. I thought the show went very well both nights."

Cast members were chosen from the members of the band, orchestra, and choir. They practiced many long hours in music classes, after school and at night.

Mr. Thomas Williams, director of Music was well pleased with the end result. He commented, "Many hours of hard work by a dedicated cast certainly paid off. "Annie" was well received by an enthusiastic audience and proved to be one of the more popular shows to be presented here at Manual."

The story revolved around the perils of Annie Oakly (Junior Carol Smith) in her attempts to win both the love of Frank Butler (Senior Carl Bauman) and the honor of being the world's greatest sharpshooter.

Annie had lived in the back woods with her brother and sisters all her life. Depending on her shooting ability for their meals, she soon had the art perfected.

She entered a contest at the urging of Foster Wilson (Junior Scott Stine) to have a shoot-out with Frank who had never been defeated in any sharpshooting event.

Awed, naive Annie was overcome by Frank's charms. As efforts by Frank's manager, Charlie Davenport (Peter McKay) to bring Annie and Frank's talents together were successful, Annie and Frank grew apart.

Soon the talents of Frank and Annie were separated and each show went its own way. A reunion of the two shows was planned in New York. It was there that it was discovered that each show was broke.

Annie and Frank had one final shoot-out to determine the greatest sharpshooter in the whole world. As Annie conceded the match to Frank at the advice of Papa Bull (Junior Gary Holmes) that "You can't get a man with a gun," she won Frank and the audience.

1 — Marti Herbig and Carrie Kennedy capture the Indian's medicine woman in the act "Pilgrims Peril"

2 — Scott Stine as Icabod sings his love to Carol Smith. They were in the winning act, "Liberty's Bell."

3 — Women's libber's Beth Van Der Moore and Karen Val Blaricum "shoot to kill" in their fight to subdue the British soldiers.

They were in the act, "Mothers of the American Revolution."

4 — Identical triplet Indians? Cathy, Madonna, and Mary Lamperski portray these mixed up Indians who can't decide whether they are really Indians or Pilgrims.

5 — Mary Lucas performs magic along with the Indian chorus line in "Pilgrim's Peril." The Indians are, Front Row: Cheryl Elliott,

6 — The proud winners of the "Best Act" award were seniors Mary Kelley and Dan Sease. They wrote "Liberty's Bell," which also won the award, "Most Original Basic Idea."

Bicentennial performance shows student spirit

The forty-seventh annual Redskin Revue brought a bicentennial spirit to the Manual stage with the theme "Great events in American history."

The opening act, "Mothers of the American Revolution," was honored as the "Best Ensemble." Written by sophomores Jim Richardson and Jeff Kirkwood, the act recreated the events of the American Revolution but with an added twist. The women were the heroes. When General Marty Washington of the Continental Army was having trouble recruiting enough men for his army, he turned to his wife, Georgia, for help. She solved his problems by rallying the women to enlist. They succeeded where the men failed by coming up with the dashingly plan of stealing the British soldiers' uniforms.

Sponsors for this act were Mr. Michael Frederick and Miss Sue Workman. Karen Van Blaricum won the award "Best Female Performer" for her portrayal of Georgia Washington.

Senior cast member, Cheryl Deny remarked, "I loved being a 'mother.'" The excitement and friendly rivalry between the acts was really fun. I hope future Revue acts have as much interest and excitement as the ones this year showed."

"Pilgrim's Peril," written by sophomores Marianne Walter and Cathy Brown and sponsored by Mrs. Marilyn McCloud and Miss Dorothy Powell, told a different story of the pilgrims' landing at Plymouth Rock than the ones told in U.S. History books.

The pilgrims landed and were eagerly welcomed by the Indians. They both wanted to sell their goods and "rip-off" each other. Both sides' plans failed when the Pilgrims could not sell their goods and the Indians medicine woman lost her magic flute. They finally agreed to live peacefully. The act closed with the traditional peace pact and celebration between them.

The act boasted the "Best Costumes" award and individual award winners Marty Herbig, "Best Female vocalist," Jenny Tutterow, "Best Comic Portrayal," and Mark Surber, "Best Vignette."

"Pilgrims' Peril" was a super act, and I was proud to be a part of it. The feeling of accomplishment the whole cast felt was unsurpassable," remarked sophomore Becky Crooks.

The final act and the winner of the "Best Act" and "Most Original Basic Idea" awards was "Liberty's Bell." Written by seniors Dan Sease and Mary Kelley and sponsored by Mr. Larry Morwick and Miss Joyce Simmons, the act told a crazy story of a contest held to find a giant bell to unite the American patriots against England. Liberty, a famous bell maker, designed the winning bell, only to see it cracked by Doc Dong and his evil Bell Boys.

Individual award winners were Bruce Peterson, "Best Male Performer," and Scott Stine, "Best Male vocalist."

Senior Dan Sease commented, "I was really proud of our act. The whole cast worked together well and helped to make the whole show run smoothly."

Seniors Sindi Shelton and Patti Burnette shared the honors for "Best Choreography." They were choreographers for and members of the Redskin Revue chorus line which also won the "Best Chorus Line" award.

Mr. Fred Bennett, director, commented, "It was a very smooth, well-rehearsed, and well-performed show. It was a real pleasure working with this year's casts."

Playing on Manual's basketball team did help me a great deal in making the All-Star team. My four years on varsity gave me the recognition and the experience needed for this honor. Also playing under good coaches and with some fine athletes helped me to improve my skills on the basketball court. It was the combination that helped get me where I am today.

sports

Manual's sports program started eighty years ago with baseball and football. Now over ten girls and boys sports keep the Redskin athletes and fans busy training and cheering.

Freshman cheerleader Rhonda Frentress commented, "Sometimes I can really get involved in a game because I consider myself a part of it."

Sports, as did other activities at Manual required that both the athletes and fans have good sportsmanship. This included fairness, courteous behavior and acceptance of defeat.

"You can be proud of a team that can accept defeat as well as victory," commented senior Chuck Riley.

Senior Michelle Bowers feels that "the games are more fun when everyone there is enjoying themselves and remembering that it is only a game."

"It's easy to criticize someone else when you're up in the stands, but it's stupid. Remember the old cliché, It's not whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game," stated senior Mary Lucas.

Strongmen of football prove weak

The varsity football team and record for the 1975 season was less thrill-packed than expected.

The 'Skins, though not posting a total losing season, came close to breaking a Manual losing record of 0-9-1 set in 1953. The season record was 1-9.

In Manual's last game, with Wood, the Redskins got their long-sought victory, defeating the Woodchucks 27-6. Junior Mark Surber said, "We worked together. The victory was very important to all of us."

Junior Mark Owens led the tribe in rushing with 640 yards. Senior Brett Andrews connected with 23 out of 81 passing attempts for a 308 yard total. Steve Williams, senior, led the blocking effort with a 72 percent average.

Coach Ray Schultz said that although we had some good backs, they frequently weren't strong enough to get through defensive lines. Another factor was the lack of experienced players.

Schultz said, "The team definitely did the best they could."

Big freshmen post Manual's best, reserve little less

The Redskin freshman squad achieved the best football standings of the season for Manual. Under the direction of coaches Mike Frederick and Pack Craig the team was able to produce a 4-6 record, defeating Howe, Roncalli, Broad Ripple and Wood.

Both Frederick and Craig are second-year coaches at Manual and seem to enjoy working with the athletes. Coach Craig commented, "I like coaching the boys and we really have a good time together."

Freshman flanker Allen Meadows thinks that "football is a lot of fun as long as you don't get hurt."

Terry Ferguson, another freshman flanker, implied that football requires intelligence along with deadly brute strength. He said, "If you don't know what you're doing, you're going to get killed."

The reserve team, coached by another second-year coach, Larry Morwick, had a disappointing season, winning only against the Southport Cardinals. They anticipate a better 1976 season.

1 — Sophomore Leon Harris, No. 21, runs the ball for Manual against Southport's Cardinals.

2 — No. 5 Brett Andrews, senior quarterback, keeps on top the play against Southport.

3 — Harris carries a play from the bench onto the field in the Homecoming game.

Manual harriers finish season with a disappointing 10-7 record

Disappointment seemed to be mutually shared by everyone on the 1975 cross country team. The runners finished the season with a mediocre 10-7 record.

"We started off well, hitting our peak a week before the city meet," said Mr. Robert Snoddy, first year cross country coach. "But the meet was a great disappointment. We finished tenth and afterwards we just fell into a slump."

Ron Driver, a cross country runner for three years, said, "It seems like our seasons always start off good, but we fail to maintain a steady pace. We just need more freshmen to come out. We really choked at the city meet."

Dan Sease, a '76 graduate who sustained an ankle injury early in the season at the Beech Grove meet, said, "We had the potential to finish second in the city; third at least. I was upset with our showing in the city and with our overall season."

Coach Snoddy, commenting on what he considered to be Manual's impressive victories and on the potential before the season started, said, "Our biggest wins came when we defeated Washington and outran Attucks, both of which finished well in the city. I think that everything considered, we could've had a 15-2 season."

David Stenger, a junior who has run cross country since his freshman year, had high hopes for the 1976 season. "Concerning this year, all I have to say is we have had better. But '75 is behind us, and I'm really looking forward to next year. Coach Snoddy is great; he's run before and he understands us. One thing we need is to get more freshmen interested in cross country."

Cross country awards were given out Friday, Nov. 21. Junior Brian Parker was named Most Valuable Player for the 1975 season. Junior David Stenger was elected captain for the 1976 cross country team.

From the optimism shared by returning harriers, the '76 team should better the 10-7 record of '75.

Golf and tennis men display accuracy all in the wrist

Manual's golf and tennismen's future appears to be wrapped up in little white balls. Both teams maintained a Manual tradition by securing a winning season and by displaying the ever-present Redskin sportsmanship.

The golfers and Coach "Woody" McBride rallied their talents to boost the season record in 12 wins, 10 losses.

Golfer John Greer stated that golf was a test of concentration as well as skill, "You don't just knock the ball around on a course. There are a lot of factors that determine the flight of the ball. Wind is a great factor, the club you use, and individual ability; knowing how and where to hit the ball to your advantage."

More and more people are finding golf interesting. In the near future, golf just might be the "in" sport.

The tennis team swept through their opponents one by one for an excellent 17-1 record. The Racketeers deserved their fine season.

Senior Chuck Laetsch topped off an undefeated season by becoming the City Champ.

Chuck commented about the game, "I think that tennis is a great fun sport for the people who want to work at being a good player. You really don't have fun in an activity if you lose all of the time."

Manual's golf and tennis men have the power to keep up their winning ways in upcoming seasons, for both squads are determined to improve and excel.

Both Coach "Woody" McBride and Coach Robert Hignite motivated their men to work, give their best, and prepare to win.

1 — Terry Ennis, 1975 graduate, exhibits his style while practicing before a golf meet.

3 — Sophomore Charles Long sets up for an oncoming ball.

4 — Senior Chuck Laetsch, 1975 City Champ, warms up before a match with Southport.

5 — Varsity tennis team: Scott Robinson, David Miller, Bob Abel, Chuck Laetsch, Brian Kent, Jim Laetsch, Charles Long, Coach Robert Hignite.

Williams and Wood grapple to Sectional crowns

Although Manual's wrestling teams did not attain the records they hoped for, there were some highlights.

The freshman squad ended the season with a 5-8 slate, but Coach Larry Morwick said, "There are several individuals whose careers at Manual seem bright."

The reserve squad, coached by Pack Craig, did somewhat better, finishing the year with a respectable 5-4-1 record.

The varsity grapplers, under the able leadership of Coach Al Pike, compiled a 4-9 season record. Sophomore Wade Coleman was the City-County Champion in the 105 pound class.

Two senior wrestlers, however, Steve Williams and Tom Wood, led the Redskin grapplers.

Steve was the Sectional Champion at the 185 weight. When asked if he enjoyed winning, Steve replied, "Of course winning may not be everything, but losing is nothing." After finishing the season with a 15-7 record, it would seem Steve would like everything about wrestling, but it was not so as he said, "I hate cutting weight."

Senior Tom Wood was the other standout with a 14-7 overall record. Manual's heavyweight, Tom was the Sectional Champion in his weight class. To put the finishing touch on a memorable year, Tom commented, "It was a great learning experience for me. It taught me responsibility for myself and others."

5 — Heavyweight Tom Wood stays on top in his battle for the Sectional crown.

Redskin M.O.B. surprises many, thrills plenty

The Manual Redskin varsity "Men of Basketball" started their season with a bang, ripping off five straight victories against unfortunate adversaries and arousing much excitement among Redskin fans.

The scene was then set for a battle with Wood. The team hungered for a win against the 'Chucks since Wood had beaten Manual on all occasions the previous year. However, the Red Machine was unable to alter the trend as Wood again prevailed 96-76.

The remainder of the season proceeded in a more relaxed fashion with the team picking up a couple of wins and perhaps slightly more than their share of losses in some close contests.

'Skin power did outplay rival Southport in a seat-edger in Cardinal territory. Forward Ray Whitley pumped in 21 points to lead the scoring and the defeat of Southport, 74-73.

Coaches Fred Belser and Bill Rosenstihl set aside some big surprises for Sectional competition enabling Manual's talent to neutralize the Hornets' sting in the first game 64-67.

The next victims to fall in the Redskin warpath were the Attucks Tigers. In a spectacular game which included three overtimes and lots of sweat, tension, and lung power, the varsity men tamed and caged the Tigers, 79-71.

The regulation time ended with a 56-56 tie. Both teams came back with determination only to be stalemated again at 64-64. The second overtime resulted in a 70-70 tie between the closely matched squads.

Redskin stamina, however, outlived the Tigers and Manual put nine points on the board to one for Attucks. "Wildman" Ray Whitley fired in a record 40 points in the game. Even the dullest viewer was brought to his tippy toes by the action.

The school that snatched the Sectional title from Manual's grasp was Perry Meridian. The Falcons used a box defense to check and hold high-scorer Whitley to a meager six points. High scorer for the Redskins in this effort was Willie Caudle with 18.

Juniors Ray Whitley and Tom Finchum were chosen for the All-Sectional team.

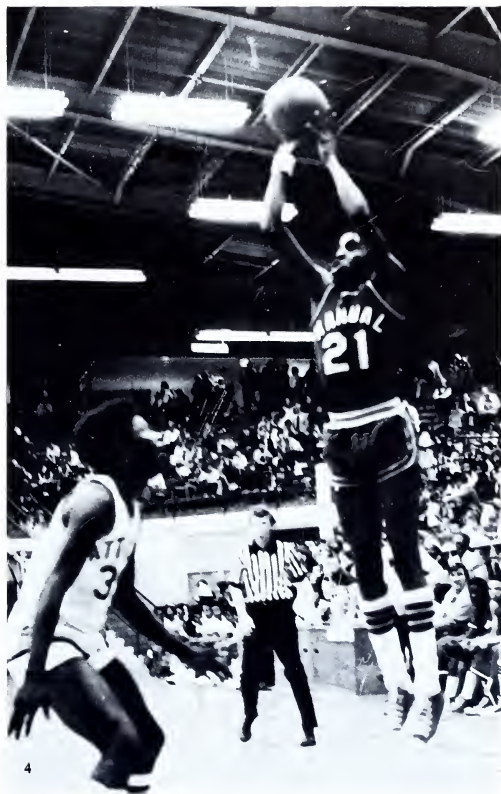

When Whitley was asked if he had expected the Redskin triumphs, he replied, "Yeah, I thought we could win the State. I knew we would beat Howe and Attucks and I was almost sure about Perry Meridian. With the squad we've got coming up next season, we should be able to take over almost anybody."

Senior Brett Andrews who has worn a varsity jersey since his sophomore year said, "I'm glad we were able to catch fire and win those Sectional games. I only wish we could have done better."

The Redskins' season record ended with an even 11-11.

Freshmen snatch Pike tourney; reserves get valuable experience

The freshman and reserve basketball squads did a fine job in their never-ending battle for the Red-skin way.

First year coach Larry "Bull" Bullington coaxed a well-balanced team to a fine 12-5 record. The frosh put away some tough competition including previously undefeated Tech. The high point of the season was defeating Northwest 51-50 to take the Pike Tourney Championship title and trophy.

Frosh manager Dan Davis said, "We felt that we had some intelligent and talented young men from the start, and that it was only a matter of forming the talent into a well-balanced club."

Freshman player Bob Bohannon went further to say, "I feel that Coach Bullington is a very knowledgeable coach and that he was fair to all the players."

The reserve men boasted a less victorious record of 10 wins and 9 losses. Coach Bill Rosenstihl has a reputation for skillfully building talent with his know-how and concern for each player.

The team started slowly with losses to Northwest and Cathedral, but rebounded back to defeat Roncalli, Marshall, Columbus North, and the Wood Woodchucks, 58-57.

Player Joe Morgan commented, "Since we were smaller, we were beaten on the boards, but our quickness and shooting ability enabled us to come through."

Coach Moriarty leads track men to new records

Coach Francis Moriarty, who has coached at Manual for twenty years, again headed the varsity team to a successful season, posting a 14-1 record. In Manual's past three seasons coach Moriarty and his men have won forty-two meets and lost only five.

Junior hurdler John Hindman suspected that, "Running track is a good way to test yourself in personal competition. Coach Moriarty's philosophy is that "track is a basis for all of the other sports." The track team records would prove that we have some good athletes.

The 'Skins very rarely end a season without breaking a couple of records. New records were earned by 1975 graduate George Novak in the discus throw, at 153 feet, and Most Valuable Freshman James Hall, completed the 440 yard dash in 52.8. Senior James Jones tied a Manual record for the 100 yard dash at 10.1.

There was a three-way split for the Most Valuable Trackmen award. Those splitting the award seniors Sharper Cunningham, Jim Jones, and George Novak. The award shared by three trackmen demonstrated the evenness of Manual's track team.

Redskin Diamondmen demonstrate spunk, skill

Attentiveness is of utmost importance in the sport of baseball. A great major league umpire summed up baseball with this comment, "One thing to always remember in baseball as well as in life is to keep your eye on the ball."

Coach Bill Rosenstihl's reasoning was somewhat different. He stated,

"Life is like baseball — three strikes and you're out."

Manual's Most Valuable Player for the 1974-1975 season was senior Mark Rollings. Mark shared the title of captain with Garry Wolfe and also had a batting average of .300.

Senior Wolfe and sophomore Tom Finchum split the Golden

Glove Award while junior Mark Bateman had the most RBI's with fifteen.

Though the 'Skins did not post a spectacular record, finishing 8-16 for the season, they readied inexperienced players for the 1976 season.

Spirit, talent give v-ballers a 15-5 record

The 1975 volleyball team boasted the best season of any girl's sport. A 15-5 record included only three season losses.

The experience of many players led the girl's to the city tourney championship game against Attucks. However, these Tigers were tough foes for the Redskins, who lost 2-1 in the final game and ended the tourney with runner-up honors.

Post-season play proved disappointing for the 'Skins. Meeting rival Perry Meridian in the first round of the sectionals, the team was eliminated. After this final game, Miss Kathryn Lawrie, coach, said, "It was a great bunch of kids, a great season, and lots of fun."

"We had a terrific team. It was great experience for my first year playing," commented senior Terrie Curtis.

Senior Peggy Dotson, most valuable player for the volleyball team, stated, "I wish I could come back next year."

Freshman Patty Hood stated, "The loss of many seniors may hurt us but there are many underclassmen that may make us better next year." Coach Lawrie also felt optimistic about next year's season.

Tennis and basketball teams gain experience

Girls Athletics at Manual, as well as all over the country, has received more participation and coverage this year.

Members of the tennis team practiced and played hard from March till May. The girls ended the season with an 8-4 record. Sophomore Cathy Lamperski and junior Sharon Esselborn won the City Championship with first place in doubles.

Coach Kathryn Lawrie stated, "It was a good team and a good season. We had the competition that made our squad excellent. All the squad is returning so we are looking forward to an even better season in 1976."

Junior Carol Smith added, "In 1976, we have the potential to win the Sectionals."

The girl's basketball team had many upsets resulting from a weak offensive game. Their final record was 3-14. Leading scorer was senior Peggy Dotson with senior Carrie Kennedy running a close second. Junior Gail Dotson was leading rebounder. The co-captains were seniors Peggy Dotson, Carrie Kennedy and Peggy Owens.

Although the team did not always end up on top, one official said, "Manual has the nicest bunch of girls in the city."

Coach Lawrie also stated, "They may lose a lot and cry a lot, but they enjoyed the participation and hopefully learned from it."

The tennis and basketball teams looked forward to next year and expect better records and new talent.

Cheer-full girls support sports throughout year

Manual's fighting Redskins were cheered on to victory during the 1975-76 sports season by girls clad in red and white.

The football and basketball teams were backed by the energetic cheerleading squads. In June, these girls attended cheerleading camp at Ball State University for one week. The cheerleaders were taught chants, cheers, mounts and pom pom routines. While at Ball State, the girls were awarded the "Spirit Stick." They also won blue, red and white ribbons in cheerleading competitions.

Varsity cheerleader, senior Patti Burnette, commented, "I think all cheerleading squads should go to cheerleading camps because they are very helpful and you learn a lot."

Wrestling Greeters were chosen in the fall of 1975 after the girls were tested on wrestling points and techniques. They attended all the wrestling meets and supported the team on to victory.

"I had fun, but its to bad not enough people came to the meets and supported the team," said senior Julie Hafer, wrestling greeter.

Cheering the track team on were the trackettes. They helped keep score, measure distance of events and hand out ribbons. Diamondettes helped the baseball team with supplies and kept score. Trailettes were added to boost the cross country team's spirit. All these girls spent a lot of time and dedication in boosting the teams' spirit and moral.

To Manual Students:

Emmerich Manual High School has built its proud traditions throughout its illustrious history in the belief that its students should be well-rounded educationally both in the classroom and in extra-curricular activities. New and different concepts have been integrated from time to time since the school was founded in 1895. Such concepts have contributed to a modernization of a basic philosophy to allow the school and its students to grow with the times while developing fundamental soundness.

Education of the Mind, Hand and Heart incorporated as the educational motto of the school has never changed. The location of the original Manual High School was at 501 South Meridian Street for 58 years, then moved to 2405 Madison Avenue in 1953 where all the proud traditions and loyalties have been perpetuated and nourished for the immediate past 23 years. Manual is proud of its many alumni and will continue to serve our community steadfastly in the future.

"When you're friends, it doesn't matter what color your skin is," remarked senior Steve Williams.

This remark was the essence of Manual's spirit. Manual consisted of black and white students working together with the faculty to better their education and themselves.

Students quickly renewed old friendships and made new ones after returning from vacation. Graduates returned to attend games and special activities and to see friends and teachers. Those who attend Manual felt a certain companionship and pride for one another's accomplishments.

"Having friends is the best part of school," commented senior Mindy Boone.

Junior Shirley Burt said, "There is always someone to say hi to when you're walking down the halls."

Senior Cheryl Denny stated, "It doesn't take much to show you care. Just a smile will do."

"Friends mean a lot to everyone," commented sophomore Cathy Newport.

Seniors receive freedoms and privileges during final year

Manual's senior class enjoyed privileges, freedoms, and fun during their final year of high school.

The year began by electing class officers, who worked with the senior council and Mr. Dennis Jackson, class sponsor, in planning various activities. The first class meeting occurred on the first of two senior days. Seniors dressed up, wore traditional armbands and carnations, and attended an after school party for these special days.

Other activities included a Christmas party at the southside Kiwanis Club, the Senior Round-up, an annual square dance, a senior play, and a prom. Seniors also set up a cheer block to instill spirit and pride during the basketball season.

Commencement exercises on June 3 ended the seniors busy year.

Senior Cheryl Denny commented, "I think it's overwhelmingly exciting to think of graduating from high school."

Mary Ruth, senior, said, "It's the hardest year; too much work and not enough time to myself."

Juniors join higher rank and prove themselves

Juniors stepped up to the rank of upperclassmen this year. They expressed themselves through various activities and classes consisting of: decorating the Christmas tree, having a day to themselves, voting for class officers and attending the prom. Another highlight of the year was the junior class hayride.

Juniors elected their first class officers since coming to Manual. President Kathy Walter stated, "The spirit and cooperation in our class have made this year great. I think we have contributed much to Manual because we care."

Vice-president Mary Maxwell added, "Being an officer is kind of special, but being a junior is fantastic." Juniors Sharon Esselborn and Teresa Kincaid were voted secretary and treasurer respectively.

Junior Day, in March, served as recognition day for the junior class. They wore red and white carnations and had a party in the cafeteria after school. The top Ten juniors were announced and awarded for their excellent work.

Mark Surber, junior, said, "We have everything it takes to make this year's junior class one of the best."

Junior Michelle Wilkerson stated, "After school, the fun really begins. Our school spirit really shows through in our own junior cheer-block at the basketball games."

Cheryl Elliott, junior, said, "The class of '77' means spirit!"

"Each one of us contributes a part to make our class unique," stated junior Maria Cantwell.

1 — Junior Robin Castle expresses herself through her work in art class.

2 — Junior class officers: Kathy Walter, president; Teresa Kincaid, treasurer; Sharon Esselborn, secretary; Mary Maxwell, vice-president.

1 — Manual Pep Club screams out their enthusiasm for the team at a home game.

2 — Senior Class Council representatives Bruce Peterson, Cindi Dillon and Steve Williams conduct business during homeroom while Mr. Dennis Jackson gives the seniors the news of the day.

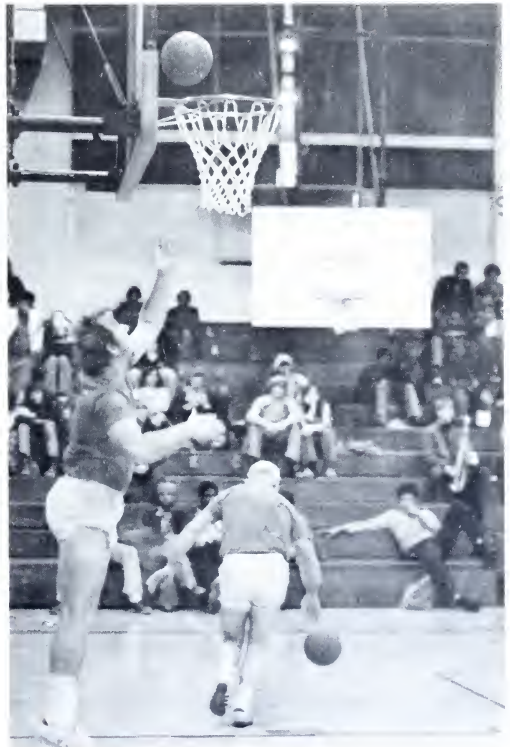

3 — Mr. Larry Morwick shows his enthusiasm as Manual defeats Scecina at home.

4 — Senior Marite Berzins jumps for joy at the thought of graduation.

5 — Manual's fighting faculty Chieftans warm up before another victory. The team remained undefeated.
